What are you doing to get to where you want to go?

Government

PwC understands that governments need to make strategic decisions that balance the competing tensions of continual policy development, program delivery pressures, public accountability and administrative controls.

Our Office of Federal Government Services offers the full benefits of PwC's experience in public policy implementation both domestically and internationally. We can provide a 'whole of department' focus on specific departmental portfolios or issues that affect multiple government departments and agencies.

We understand the ACT Government faces particular challenges in making strategic decisions with a national impact while managing the delivery of local government services.

Industry

Our industry teams combine skills and experience in assurance, business advisory and taxation to offer clients competitive solutions, from healthcare to construction and transportation, investment management to industrial products. Our global practice ensures we appreciate the international trends impacting on your industry with the added benefit of local insight.

Private enterprise and individuals

In response to growing needs of our private clients, we have increased the focus on the knowledge, insight and energy our Private and Client Services (PCS) team brings to the market.

The energy of the private client market and the opportunity to help build and grow Australia's future successful businesses are at the heart of what drives our PCS team. With more than 49 partners and 607 staff, PCS is a significant priority to the firm. The team enables PwC to provide a personalised and complete business consulting solution to Australia's small to middle market, including private and family businesses, entrepreneurs and high-net-worth individuals.

PCS works in close collaboration with each client as a trusted business adviser, providing frank and honest advice on areas such as business restructuring, benchmarking, compliance, strategy advice, personal tax and succession planning. We help private businesses grow by providing access to the same knowledge, networks and opportunities available to our large clients, while at the same time understanding private clients' unique business and personal drivers.
