A better way to certification

If you've ever been involved in reviewing the compliance of all of your sites or getting certification for parts (or all of your organisation), you'll know it can be a challenge: time-consuming and difficult to manage with limited insights from the exercise. Certification and compliance activities, while essential for organisations today, are often harder than they need to be.

But what if this wasn't the case? What if, instead, you were confident this was well managed, risk based, data enabled and led to a stimulating conversation about potential improvements for your organisation?

PwC can help your organisation to be recognised in the following standards and schemes:

- ISO 9001: Quality Management systems
- ISO 14001: Environmental Management systems
- ISO 45001/ASNZS 4801/OHSAS 18001: Occupational Health & Safety management systems
- ISO 27001: Information Security Management Systems
- Transported Assets Protection Association (TAPA)
- National Disability Insurance Scheme: NDIS Practice Standards
- ISO 22000/HACCP/SQF: Food Safety Management Systems

PwC has combined best-practice process with the latest digital tools to make sure the job of gaining certification and maintaining compliance is not only more streamlined, consistent and transparent, but also leads to a greater competitive advantage.

Drawing on our experience in assurance and advisory, we now offer you certification services with:

| | | | |
|--|---|--|---|
|  |  |  |  |
| A single location for the collection, analysis and presentation of data: one source of truth | Plan focused sharply on key objectives and relevant risks | Real-time transparency, coordination and accountability over the progress and status of corrective actions | Opportunities for discussions about remediation, continuous improvement and business performance, in the context of your broader business goals |

PwC's Certification seal

PwC's Certification seal demonstrates that your management system meets the criteria set out in the relevant ISO management systems standard.

Display PwC's Certification seal on your website, corporate letterhead and tender documentation to strengthen your reputation and demonstrate your commitment to continuous improvement. The seal may only be used on successful, valid certification of your management system by PwC's Certification and Compliance Services for the certification period, and only in relation to those activities set out in the scope of your certification.

We know that every client is unique. If you decide to engage PwC's Certification and Compliance Services, our relationship managers will work closely with you to answer your questions, meet your specific needs and ensure a smooth transition.

Make the switch to an efficient, focussed and collaborative approach to certification.

Making the switch to PwC: Your transfer checklist

Making the switch to PwC's Certification and Compliance Services for your certification needs is a quick and easy process. No matter where you are in the certification cycle, switching from your current provider is a free, secure and straightforward process – without disruption to your business. We will happily coordinate the transfer on your behalf.

These 6 steps ensure a smooth and seamless transition:

1

Meet with your local PwC Client Relationship Manager.

2

Following our conversation with you, your Client Relationship Manager will issue a letter of engagement.

3

Send us copies of your current certificate(s) and two latest reports – including details of any corrective actions.

4

We will issue you with 'like for like' certificate(s) where there are no outstanding non-conformances.

5

Discuss and agree dates and timing of future reviews.

6

On successful transfer of certification, and signature of the license agreement, you will be able to use the PwC's Certification seal on your website, corporate letterhead and tender documents.
