

PwC Australia – Africa Practice

Connecting you to our leading African network

“ I am extremely impressed with the way PwC in Australia have embraced Africa and the positive relationship that they have developed with the Australia-Africa Minerals and Energy Group (AAMEG).
As AAMEG engages with and supports the explorers, juniors and mid-level companies, it is vital that their voices are heard and the issues understood. PwC understands the significance of this end of the market and the extra input and resources that are required.
PwC are making major contributions to the industry through their research, preparation and presentation on key issues that are impacting on the industry.
It is a pleasure to work with such an enthusiastic, progressive and professional organisation, who want to understand the issues and make a positive contribution.”

Trish O'Reilly,
CEO of AAMEG

Connecting you to our leading African network

African countries are perceived to be tough to do business in. Understanding how to navigate different operating environments is essential to maximising the huge investment opportunities available.

Our Australia – Africa practice connects Australian companies with our leading African network; supported by an Australian team which understands your business and connects you to partners on the ground where you need it most.

“ Our PwC Australia team (together with their African colleagues), provided a seamless service in relation to our acquisition in Africa. They provided a one stop shop for our due diligence, acquisition, structuring and financing requirements.”
